Introduction

The transaction approval process (TAP) lets your organization use Access Online to approve and audit transactions using your existing internal approval hierarchy and procedures. By using the TAP function, you can eliminate paper approvals and easily approve transactions and view approval history. The TAP function's flexibility also enables you to mirror your own internal auditing procedures, from simple to complex.

Two basic users will use the TAP function:

- Cardholders—Cardholders will use TAP to approve and forward transactions to an approval manager.
- Approval managers—Approval managers will use TAP to review, final approve, and forward (if needed) transactions to another approval manager.

The system lets only one user modify a transaction at a given point in time. In other words, the same transaction will never be in the work queue of more than one user. This feature reduces the chance of fraud and ensures that only one person can modify a transaction at a time.

Both approval managers and cardholders can perform the following basic procedures:

- Approve transactions—Cardholders and approval managers can approve transactions and forward them to an approval manager for additional approval. Cardholders approve and forward only their own transactions, while approval managers approve and forward transactions from cardholders and other approval managers.
- Pull back transactions—Cardholders and approval managers can pull back transactions that an approval manager has not approved, rejected, or modified (e.g. reallocated) yet. Both cardholders and approval managers can pull back transactions they previously approved as long as the pending approval managers have not yet approved, rejected or modified the transactions (e.g., reallocated, added comments, changed user line items).
- Manage rejected transactions—Both cardholders and approval managers can manage transactions that approval managers reject back to them.

In addition, approval managers can:

- Reject transactions—Approval managers can reject transactions and send them back to the cardholder, previous approval manager, or to another approval manager. The rejecting approval manager must specify a rejection reason so that the cardholder or approval manager receiving the rejected transaction knows how to manage the rejected transaction.

The flow chart on the following page provides an overview of the entire process.

TAP Overview

View-Only Access

You may only be able to view transaction approval screens, without being able to perform any approval tasks. Your organization may have set you up with this view-only access so that you can see the transactions and their approval status in the system, without being able to make any changes to the information. For example, if you are an internal auditor in your organization, you might have such view-only access. The screens and tasks will display as shown in this user guide, but the action buttons for performing tasks will not be active. In this way, your Program Administrator can give you the access to the information you need, while maintaining control over who can modify the information in the system, leading to greater overall program control.

Learn More: If your organization's procedures require you to approve accounts, including cardholder and managing accounts, as well as transactions, you should refer to the Access Online: Account Approval Process user guide.

Approve Your Own Transactions

As an approval manager, you need to approve your own transactions using the procedures in this section. To manage your own transactions, you act as a cardholder. Later in this user guide, you will learn how to approve and manage the transactions that cardholders send to you for approval. To manage your own transactions, you can:

- View a list your transactions, filtered by approval status (e.g., pending, pulled back) and other parameters
- Approve and forward a transaction to an approval manager
- Pull back a transaction as long as the approval manager (also called the pending approver) has not approved, rejected, or modified the transaction (e.g., reallocated, added comments, changed user line items).
- Manage a rejected transaction if your approval manager sends it back to you
- View the approval history to see the current approval status of the transaction, along with each user who approved a transaction, the date and time of each approval, and whether or not each user modified the transaction's allocation, comments, or line items

View Transactions

The first step in using the TAP function is to access a list of your transactions.

To view transactions:

1. Select the Transaction Management high-level task. The Transaction Management screen displays.

2. Click the Transaction List link. The Transaction Management: Search and Select an Account screen displays.

Tip! If you have access to only one account you will go directly to the Transaction Management: Transaction List screen after selecting the Cardholder Transaction Management link. Otherwise, you will need to select which account you want to work with.

These icons indicate the type additional detail available and if the transaction has been extracted.

For detailed information on marking transactions for extract (if you are responsible for that task), refer to the Access Online: Marking Transactions for Extract user guide.

Learn More: If your organization is using the client system validation (CSV) function, on the list of transactions, you can see the validation status icon for each transaction. You can also sort by validation status. CSV provides a real-time validation of accounting codes and flags each transaction with one of the validation status icons shown below.

Validation Status Icons Table

Icon	Status	Description
	Not Validated	The accounting code has not been validated, so the validation status (valid or invalid) is not known.
	Valid	The accounting code is valid.
	Invalid	The accounting code is invalid.

CSV is a process that shares accounting code data between our organization and your organization. The CSV process connects Access Online and your system so that we can send you the accounting codes cardholders enter for validation and your system can send a message back regarding the validity of each accounting code.

As the illustration below shows, the CSV process provides for a real-time validation of accounting codes while cardholders work in the system. The valid accounting codes reside on your system. The validation process checks the accounting codes cardholders enter into Access Online against the codes in your system. The CSV process also includes a nightly batch validation of all accounting codes not yet validated.

Your Program Administrator has set up the parameters for how your organization will use CSV in TAP. For example, you may not be able to approve a transaction with a Not Validated accounting code.

9. Repeat steps 1–8 for all remaining transactions you wish to approve and forward.

Pull Back a Transaction

You can pull back a transaction before the approval manager you forwarded the transaction to has approved, rejected, or modified (e.g., reallocated) the transaction. After an approval manager takes action on a transaction, the transaction belongs to the current approval manager and you can no longer pull back the transaction.

Transaction Approval Process

Learn More: You can now modify the transaction (e.g., reallocate, add line item information) as described in the Access Online: Transaction Management user guide. After you modify the transaction, repeat the steps in Approve a Transaction on page 12 to approve and forward the transaction again.

Manage a Rejected Transaction

The approval manager you forward a transaction to may reject a transaction. When an approval manager rejects a transaction, the system requires the rejecting approval manager to provide a reason and/or comments, so you know how to modify the transaction to make it acceptable. After you modify the transaction, using the transaction management functions (refer to the Access Online: Transaction Management user guide), you can re-approve and forward the transaction. Depending on your organization's internal procedures, you may send the transaction back to whomever rejected it you, or you may send it back up the chain, beginning with your approval manager.

For example, you send a transaction to your approval manager, Richard Anderson, and he approves the transaction and sends the transaction to Kate Jones, who rejects the transaction back to you to reallocate. Once you reallocate the transaction, you might need to send it to Richard again for approval or you might send to back directly to Kate for final approval. Whether you send to Richard or Kate depends entirely on how your organization handles your internal transaction approval procedures. If you are uncertain which approval manager to resend a rejected transaction to, check with your program administrator.

View Approval History for a Transaction

If you want to see the history of a transaction, you can view the approval history for a specific transaction on the Approval History tab. The Approval History tab provides an audit trail, including the name of each approval manager and what action each approval manager took related to the transaction.

The screenshot shows the 'Transaction Management' interface. At the top, there's a 'Log Out' button. Below it, the 'Card Account Summary with Transaction List' is displayed. The account details for 'JANE SMITH' are shown, including account number, outstanding orders, and transaction counts. A 'Search Criteria' section is also visible. The main part of the screenshot is a table titled 'Transaction List' with columns: Select, Status, Approval Status, Match, Trans Date, Posting Date, Merchant, City/State, Amount, Detail, Purchase ID, Allocation Source, and Last Changed By. A red circle with the number '1' is placed over the 'Approval Status' column in the first row of the table.

Approval Manager Transaction Approval Process

Aside from managing your own transactions, if you are an approving manager, you manage the transactions other users send to you for approval. Depending on how your program is set up and which internal approval procedures you follow, you may approve transactions from other approval managers or only from cardholders.

As an approval manager, you can:

- View transactions that cardholders and other approving managers have sent to you for approval
- Approve a transaction and either final-approve the transaction or forward it to another approval manager. You cannot approve and forward a transaction to yourself.
- Reject a transaction, by selecting a reject reason and sending the transaction back to the cardholder, a previous approval manager or another approval manager.
- Pull back a transaction, if the approval manager has not approved, rejected or modified (e.g., reallocated) the transaction
- Manage a rejected transaction, if the approval manager has rejected a transaction and sent it back to you to address and resubmit for approval
- View the approval history and current approval status for transactions that you have approved
- Opt to receive an email summary of pending transactions on a daily or weekly basis, on a day of the week you select. You can turn this function on, off, or modify the email frequency on the My Personal Information: Contact Information screen.
- Complete transaction management tasks as described in the Access Online: Transaction Management user guide before you approve or reject the transaction. Once you approve or reject the transaction, you can no longer modify the transaction, unless you pull it back. If you do modify the transaction, the system records your changes along with your approval actions.

Whether you can final-approve a transaction or whether you need to approve and send a transaction to another approval manager depends on your organization's internal procedures.

View and Approve Transactions

If you are an approval manager, you can view and approve the transactions that other cardholders or previous approval managers have approved and then sent to you for further approval.

To view and approve transactions:

1. Select the Transaction Management high-level task on the Left-Column Navigation Bar. The Transaction Management screen displays.

2. Select the Manager Approval Queue link. The Transaction Management: Manager Approval Queue screen displays. This screen lists the transactions that cardholders have forwarded to you for approval.

Transaction Approval Process

Learn More: If your organization uses CSV, then you can only approve and forward transactions based on the parameters your Program Administrator set up. For example, you may not be able to approve or final-approve transactions with an Invalid and/or Not Validated accounting code status. Some program administrators set up their programs to allow approval of transactions with Not Validated and/or Invalid accounting codes, but do not allow final-approval of the same transactions until the accounting code is valid. In this way, cardholders and approval managers can continue to process transactions, but final approval requires a valid accounting code. Other program administrators may not allow any approval of transactions with Invalid and/or Not Validated accounting codes. However your Program Administrator set up the CSV function for your organization, if you attempt to save an approval not authorized by your program administrator, an error message displays, as shown in the example below.

Tip! If you select the Other check box, then you must type comments. You can also select more than one reject reason. Add comments to any rejection by selecting Other as well and typing comments.

5. Select the appropriate Rejection Destination radio button:
 - a. Select the Reject each transaction to its cardholder account to send the transaction (or each transaction in the selected group) back to the cardholder.

Transaction Approval Process

Tip! If you selected a group of transactions, and select to send the transactions back to their cardholders, each transaction in the group will go back to the original cardholder. For example, if you selected three transactions from Jane Smith and one transaction from Dan Johnson, and rejected all four for incorrect allocation, the system sends Jane's transactions to Jane and Dan's transaction to Dan. The same principle applies for sending transactions back to their previous approval managers.

- b. Select the Reject each transaction back to its previous approver radio button to send the transaction (or each transaction in a group) back to the previous approval manager.
- c. Select the Reject all transactions to an approver radio button to send all the transactions back to a specific approver.

Below this, there are tabs for 'Transactions' and 'Payment Requests'. A text box states: 'The following transactions have been previously approved by you. Filter your approved transactions by using any'. Below this, there are filters for 'Bill to' (All), 'Card' (All), and 'Pending Approver' (All). There is also a 'Pull Back Eligibility' dropdown menu. A 'Search' button and a 'Reset' button are present. Below the filters, there is a text box: 'If you would like to view or modify specific transaction data, please click on the transaction's status or date link.' Another text box says: 'If you would like to pull back a transaction, please click on the transaction's status or date link. If you would like to pull back a group of transactions into your Approval Queue, please select the transaction(s) and click "Pull Back".' Below this, there is a table with 3 records. The first record is 'RITE OSKALOOSA' with a 'Final Approved' status. The second record is 'SUBWAY 00074674' with a 'Rejected' status and a 'Cardholder' pending approver. The third record is 'WENDY'S #4410 Q25' with a 'Final Approved' status. Below the table, there is a 'Pull Back' button. Three callouts are present: 1. 'You can filter the list to show only transactions that are eligible for pullback.' pointing to the 'Pull Back Eligibility' dropdown. 2. 'Only transactions eligible for pull-back have a check box.' pointing to the checkboxes in the table. 3. 'You can pull back a group of transactions at the same time.' pointing to the 'Pull Back' button.
